Q: How to get Facebook Page URL as parameter of an Android Webview? I'm trying to get the Facebook Page URL as a parameter in a WebView. As you can see on the screenshot, the URL is in the input box, but when I press the button to make the WebView open in my WebviewFragment, it's empty. What's the problem? A: In your onclick() callback in your fragment you should try this... `url = browser.getURL().getPath(); url += "?type=page";`

Q: Recovering from Version Control System

Merge Conflict with Unrecorded Changes? I had a project with many many versions of the same file. Due to the size of the project, I decided to let svn merge the files and create a new working directory containing the resulting (merged) file. In an apparent oversight, I did not record my changes while the merge was happening. As a result, I have a working directory with all my project files, including the merged file. The newer versions of the project file contain the unexpected merge conflict. I have no idea how to recover my changes. I don't remember them. I'm sure there are ways, but none of the options seem feasible. For example, if I do a full restore, I will end up with an untouched working directory, and everything will be affected. Any suggestions? A: If you commit the conflict when prompted you
